

Midwestern University

College of Graduate Studies Dean's Scholarship

Midwestern University (MWU) and the College of Graduate Studies (CGS) are committed to supporting academic excellence and student success. The CGS Scholarship is a merit- and need-based award for outstanding students pursuing a Master of Arts (MA) or Master of Biomedical Sciences (MBS) degree at MWU.

The CGS Dean's Scholarship waives tuition for MA and MBS-1 Students for the Spring Quarter. MBS-1 students who are awarded the scholarship and maintain eligibility, with no failures, until Winter Quarter of year two will automatically be awarded a second waiver of the tuition for Spring Quarter of year two. MBS-2 students who meet the eligibility criteria in the second year may also apply in Winter Quarter.

CGS believes that supporting a broad range of students contributes to advancement, innovation, and excellence in biomedical research, patient care, and healthcare delivery.

To be eligible for this scholarship, the applicant must:

- Be a current CGS MA, MBS-1, or MBS-2 student at MWU.
- Demonstrate commitment to leadership roles, academic projects, community service activities, and/or research.
- Have a minimum cumulative Biomedical Sciences Program GPA of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale, and no failures in any class. The CGS has the right to withdraw the scholarship due to academic or professional issues.
- Complete the Financial Aid Application process to demonstrate financial need.
- Submit a personal statement, no more than 500 words (and must not be AI generated), that addresses your commitment to leadership roles, academic projects, community service activities, and/or research.

Applications will be available during the spring quarter each year. Preference will be given to first-generation college students (include in your personal statement).
